

English Style

Old San Francisco

The California Gold Rush quickly transformed San Francisco from a small town to a booming metropolitan center of 25,000 by December 1849. Enterprising businessmen were quick to capitalize on the newly generated wealth. It was during this economic boom when Henry Sutliff opened the first of his shops. Sutliff quality tobaccos remain among the best with this complex English Mixture comprised of Virginia, Perique, Dark Fired Burley and Latakia.

Non-Aromatic

Breckinridge

Roughly half the tobacco farms in the United States are in Kentucky. This superb Non-Aromatic mixture of Kentucky Plug Cut Burley is fittingly named after John Breckinridge, a planter and U.S. Attorney General under Thomas Jefferson.

www.Sutliff-Tobacco.com

600 Perdue Avenue

Richmond, Virginia 23224

1-800-525-4092

INTRODUCING

THE NEW BLENDS FOR

2014

Sutliff Tobacco Company

Aromatic

April Dawn

In most temperate zones, cherry blossoms peak in early April trumpeting the arrival of spring. The beauty of April soon gives way to the rewards of June with the ripening of succulent cherries. Experience the taste of ripe cherries with this delicious mixture of Burley and Virginia.

Archduke Ferdinand

This intricate Aromatic is a Mixture of seven distinct Vanilla sub-blends. It is a cornucopia of leaf in a variety of cuts ranging from Burley and Virginia to Black Cavendish. In that regard it is much like tracing the lineage of royalty. The name fits this blend rather well.

County Cork

The majority of all Irish Whisky produced in Ireland today comes from County Cork. What better way to pay tribute to this superb Whisky blend of Virginia and Burley than to call it County Cork?

Honey & Chocolate

Some things just naturally go together, as Honey and Chocolate. This delicious aromatic's strength is that it actually tastes like its' name. Neither the honey nor the chocolate dominates, but each complements the other rather well. When applied to a base of Burley, Virginia and Black Cavendish, you can't go wrong with this one.

Aromatic

Loire Valley

The Loire Valley has been referred to as the Garden of France primarily because of its' temperate climate with an abundance of vineyards and fruit orchards. This Fruity Aromatic Blend is sure to please with its' Raspberry and Mango notes applied to a Black Cavendish Base.

Mountain Pass

In the higher altitudes the Alps retain a strong cultural identity with agriculture and culinary delights still being vital to the economy. Mountain passes have long been the route to move commerce. This delicious Black Cavendish with a delightful custardy top note is a taste of the Alpine at its finest.

Taste Of Autumn

Autumn invokes a sense of pleasure with splendid colors, brisk clean air and abundant harvests. The rich spicy flavors of autumn highlight this tasty Virginia and Burley based aromatic.

Taste Of Spring

It is near magic when the first warm days of spring bring to life winter's hibernating buds. The bleak harshness of a seemingly endless winter has been replaced with a revival of life. This aromatic mixture of sweet fragrant Virginia and Burley is perfect for celebrating the arrival of spring.

English Style

Court of St. James

The English revere tradition perhaps more than any other nationality. But leave it to the English to put their unique twist upon things. The Court of St. James is determined by the residence of the monarch. This straightforward mixture of Rich Virginias and Spicy Perique Tobaccos is anything but your traditional English Blend.

Kasimir

Kasimir denotes status as several Polish kings and prominent military leaders have borne the name. This extraordinary English Mixture of Smoky Latakia, Rich Orientals, Golden Virginias and Burley could not be more aptly named.

Lord of the Manor

The term Lord of the Manor dates back to medieval English feudalism. In more modern terminology it is used for land registry. It is indeed quirky how terminology changes over time. A case in point, all blends made under British Tobacco Purity Laws were known as English Blends, whether or not they contained any Latakia. You can rest assured that this English Mixture has an abundance of Latakia along with Burley, Virginia, Perique and Smyrna.